Office Hours: Feel free to drop by anytime. If it's essential that we meet, please do make an appointment as I might be meeting with someone else when you drop by, or I might be out of the office for a meeting. Email is the best way to contact me for appointments. Please allow time for me to respond to your email.

Please feel free to email or call me with any questions you might have, or if you want to discuss your assignments, ideas, etc.

The University of Alberta respectfully acknowledges that we are located on Treaty 6 territory, a traditional gathering place for diverse Indigenous peoples including the Cree, Blackfoot, Metis, Nakota Sioux, Iroquois, Dene, Ojibway/ Sauleaux/Anishinaabe, Inuit, and many others whose histories, languages, and cultures continue to influence our vibrant community.

Course Rationale and Description:

Social studies provides opportunities for students to develop the attitudes, skills and knowledge that will enable them to become engaged, active, informed and responsible citizens. Recognition and respect for individual and collective identity is essential in a pluralistic and democratic society. Social Studies helps students develop their sense of self and community, encouraging them to affirm their place as citizens in an inclusive, democratic society. (Alberta Education, 2005: Program Rationale and Philosophy, Social Studies K-12, p. 1.)

Greetings, and welcome to EDEL 335! The purpose of this course is to help you develop and articulate your beliefs, understandings and skills in order to plan, teach, and assess Social Studies at the Elementary level. The above quote offers one rationale for Social Studies education. Throughout the course we will enter into an exploration of (1) Past and current theory on the meaning and purpose of Social Studies education, with the view to formulating a knowledgeable and informed rationale for our own practice as Social Studies teachers; (2) What we want Social Studies to look like in our classrooms and to our students, and why; and (3) The various ways in which we can make our vision of Social Studies a reality in our practice. It is my hope that this will be a collaborative process, with each of us contributing to one another's learning.

The course will model the essential understandings and foundational principles inherent in Alberta Education's Program of Studies for Social Studies. Our classes will utilize inquiry-based, constructivist, experiential, collaborative and reflective pedagogies. All of the learning experiences are designed to help you develop the skills and understandings to plan, teach and assess social studies from Kindergarten to Grade Six.

Learning Outcomes & Alberta Teaching Quality Standards:

This course is part of the Bachelor of Education program that prepares students for Interim Professional Certification by Alberta Education. This course prepares students to meet the following competencies that are part of the Alberta Teaching Quality Standard:

Readings, class activities, and assignments in this course are designed to prepare pre-service teachers for Interim Professional Certification by Alberta Education. Competencies included in the Alberta Teaching Quality Standard are indicated in the parenthesis following each learning outcome. By the completion of EDEL 335 students should be able to:

- articulate a conception of social studies, including an understanding of the purpose and goals of social studies education (3a; 4c)
- critically and thoughtfully engage with the Alberta Social Studies Program of Studies (POS) (3a,b)
- plan teaching experiences which reflect educationally sound goals, are grounded in the social studies POS, and which use a variety of instructional strategies to engage students critically and thoughtfully with social studies content (1c; 2d; 3a,b; 4b,f)
- design inclusive learning experiences that build an awareness of issues of power and oppression, and which foster equality and respect with regard to human rights as provided for in the Alberta Human Rights Act and the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms (1f; 2c; 3a; 4a,b,g)
- use the POS to provide opportunities for all students to develop a knowledge and understanding of, and respect for, the histories, cultures, languages, contributions, perspectives, experiences, and contemporary context of First Nations, Métis, and Inuit (1f; 2c,e; 5c,d)
- utilize effective strategies for building a community of inquiry within the social studies classroom (1b; 2a; 3a,b,c; 4f)
- identify, critically evaluate, and build a collection of instructional resources that support the learning experiences of all students, and reflect diversity, equity, inclusion, and First Nations, Métis, and Inuit perspectives (1f; 2c,d,e; 3a; 4a; 5d)
- develop and apply authentic formative and summative assessment strategies in ways that enhance student learning (3c)
- be familiar with strategies for infusing technology throughout teaching and learning experiences (2f; 3a)

Required texts: Please bring all required materials with you to every class.

General Course Expectations

Success in this course is contingent on timely completion of readings and assignments, active participation in class, and regular attendance. Interaction with your peers and instructor contributes to developing a community of learning and practice, encouraging collaborative, collegial attitudes and habits. Please treat your instructor and all class members in a respectful and dignified manner. Teaching involves a range of professional and pedagogic obligations and responsibilities including being well-prepared, being punctual, and attending class regularly. Do not schedule appointments that conflict with this course. Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class day.

Expectations for Attendance and Professionalism

Attendance

- In this course, I expect professional behaviour, similar to how you would interact with a school principal. Absenteeism should be avoided, but if you absolutely have to miss a class due to illness or other extenuating circumstances, or if you are going to be late, I expect you to email or call to let me know.
- Since presence at lectures, participation in classroom discussions and projects, and the completion of assignments are important components of most courses, students will serve their interests best by regular attendance. "Those who choose not to attend must assume whatever risks are involved" (Attendance Section of the University of Alberta Calendar)
- Students are responsible for all material distributed and/or discussed during all classes, even ones they've missed. If you do miss a class, contact a classmate to get notes/information that you missed.
- Students who are repeatedly absent may receive an email notifying them of the risks associated with absenteeism. Such risks include (but are not limited to): not having materials required to complete assignments, not understanding material that may be on the final exam, performing poorly in the course. The Associate Chair of the Department of Elementary Education will be copied on these emails.

Professionalism

- Email etiquette: This may seem like an obvious or frivolous skill but it is surprising how easy it is to miscommunicate via email. Remember, it's a good idea to develop these habits now because the parents/guardians of your future students will expect professional correspondence from you. Here's a handy guide (you can ignore #9 in the list – you don't need to provide proof but I do expect you to let me know if you are going to be absent – see Attendance section, above).
- Disruptive behaviour: To ensure a positive learning environment for all, please make sure that your actions do not disrupt the instructor or other students in the class.
 - Arrive on time and prepared for class. Chronically arriving late is distracting.
 - Follow your instructor's guidelines for the use of digital devices in the classroom. Cell phones should be on "silent." Texting/calling/checking for texts/calls is not permitted during class time.
 - Listen to the instructor during lectures and other students during discussions. Refrain from off-task conversations that disrupt the learning of yourself and others.

- According to the Code of Student Behaviour, students who are disruptive can be asked to leave (Section 30.3 and 30.4.3[1]): <https://www.ualberta.ca/governance/resources/policies-standards-and-codes-of-conduct/code-of-student-behaviour>
- ATA Code of Professional Conduct: In addition to upholding the University of Alberta Code of Student Behaviour, students in the Faculty of Education are expected to conduct themselves according to the Alberta Teachers' Association Code of Professional Conduct (<http://www.teachers.ab.ca/>). While enrolled in the IPT or APT, students are also subject to the guidelines described in the Practicum Intervention Policy (<https://www.ualberta.ca/governance/resources/policies-standards-and-codes-of-conduct/practicum-intervention-policy>). In brief, pre-service teachers:
 - should conduct themselves in a manner that respects the dignity and rights of all persons
 - should treat other students with dignity and respect and be considerate of their learning circumstances.
 - should not undermine the confidence of their classmates in other instructors.
 - should meet with the instructor in private when questioning professional competence, including methods of instruction or grading issues.
 - should act in a manner which maintains the honor and dignity of the profession

Plagiarism: If you didn't write, invent, create or think it, you'd better cite it.

It is the student's responsibility to inform her/himself about the penalties that may be imposed if plagiarism is suspected or confirmed. Students should be particularly careful when working in groups, especially if using another group member's ideas. Proper attribution should be noted on the assignment.

Be proactive: If you're not sure if you've plagiarised, check with someone who can help you before handing in your assignment! "I didn't know" is not an accepted defense for plagiarism.

Assignments and Evaluation

Final grades will be calculated using the Absolute Grading System (see details that follow).

Since this is a compressed course, it will feel like you are always working on an assignment. It will feel that way because it will be true. Please ensure you have adequate time to devote to your assignments as extensions will not be possible (except in very extreme circumstances). You will need to stay up to date with assigned readings as these will be directly related to the assignments in this course. Just like driving through a small town – if you blink, the course will be over!

Due Dates and Weighting of Assignments

All assignments submitted for evaluation should have been completed by you for this course and not recycled from any other course or source.

ASSIGNMENT	DUE DATE	WEIGHT
1) Developing a Personal Philosophy of Teaching Social Studies
A) Philosophy of Teaching Social Studies	Mon., January 14	(Ind.) 10%
B) Reflection on Teaching Philosophy	Mon., March 4	(Ind.) 5%
2) Unit Plan Assignment		40%
A) Unit Plan Rationale	Wed., January 23	(Ind. or Group)
B) Assessment Plan	Mon., February 4
C) 8-10 Mini-Lessons	Mon., March 4
3) Evaluation of Teaching Resources Develop a portfolio of resources for inclusion in your unit plan	Wed., February 13	25% (Ind. or Group)
4) Mid-term exam	Wed., January 30	(Ind.) 20%
TOTAL		100%

Please note: Unless otherwise indicated, paper copies of assignments should be submitted at the beginning of class on the due date. Late assignments will only be accepted upon prior approval of the instructor, but will be subject to a penalty of 5% per day late. The instructor may consider an extension if notified within 48 hours of due date.

Access to Past or Representative Evaluative Course Material

Representative samples of the major assignment (Unit Plan Assignment) can be found on the EDEL 335 course wiki (link provided above).

Standards for Written Work

Clear and effective writing is a key part of professional practice. You are expected to demonstrate a sound command of English grammar. While specific marking criteria will be given for each assignment in this course (see eClass site for details), the general criteria for all assignments are as follows:

Analysis: development of a coherent, logical, balanced analysis leading to reasoned conclusions;

Content: mastery of relevant material and ability to apply material to particular situations;

Clarity: precision in identifying key concepts and in developing your position;

Effort: indication that there is a conscious, sustained, earnest attempt to achieve a particular direction/outcome;

Diction: professional tone and standard language usage.

Equity Statement and Inclusive Language Policy

The Faculty of Education is committed to providing an environment of equality and respect for all people within the university community, and to educating staff and students in developing teaching and learning contexts that are welcoming to all. The Faculty recommends that students and staff use inclusive language to create a classroom atmosphere in which students' experiences and views are treated with equal respect and value in relation to their gender, race, sexual orientation, and ethnic backgrounds.

Code of Student Behaviour and Academic Integrity

The University of Alberta is committed to the highest standards of academic integrity and honesty. Students are expected to be familiar with these standards regarding academic honesty and to uphold the policies of the University in this respect. Students are particularly urged to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the Code of Student Behaviour (online at <https://www.ualberta.ca/governance/resources/policies-standards-and-codes-of-conduct/code-of-student-behaviour>) and avoid any behaviour which could potentially result in suspicions of cheating, plagiarism, misrepresentation of facts and/or participation in an offence. Academic dishonesty is a serious offence and can result in suspension or expulsion from the University.

Additional information regarding academic integrity and plagiarism can be found at: <https://www.ualberta.ca/current-students/academic-resources/academic-integrity>

Faculty of Education Professional Standards

Students' performance and behavior in the classroom on campus and while student teaching in the schools are subject to the guidelines laid out in the Code of Student Behavior, the Practicum Intervention Policy, and the Alberta Teachers' Association Code of Professional Conduct. – See Faculty of Education Professional Standards Section of the Calendar.

Recording in the Classroom or Gymnasium

Audio or video recording, digital or otherwise, of lectures, labs, seminars or any other teaching environment by students is allowed only with the prior written consent of the instructor or as a part of an approved accommodation plan. Student or instructor content, digital or otherwise, created and/or used within the context of the course is to be used solely for personal study, and is not to be used or distributed for any other purpose without prior written consent from the content author(s).

Student Accessibility Services

Students who require accommodations in this course due to a disability affecting mobility, vision, hearing, learning, or mental and physical health are advised to discuss their needs with Students Accessibility Services, 1-80 Students' Union Building, 492-3381 (phone) or 492-7269 (TTY), <https://www.ualberta.ca/current-students/student-accessibility-services/>.

Personal or Academic Difficulties

Students experiencing academic or personal difficulties may contact Undergraduate Student Services (ED North 1-107, email: educ.info@ualberta.ca, phone: 780-492-3659) for support services.

DEPARTMENT OF ELEMENTARY EDUCATION GRADING POLICY

In accordance with university policy, instructors in courses offered by the Department of Elementary Education may use the absolute measures system, the distribution system, or a combination of the two for calculating final course letter grades. In the Absolute Grading System, students attain their letter grade on the basis of the absolute raw score total they have earned through completion of the course. Under the absolute measures system, the instructor determines ahead of time how raw scores will be converted to grades. Under the distribution or relative scoring system, the instructor determines the final grade based on the distribution of scores achieved by all of the students in the class. If a distribution system is used, the conversion is at the discretion of the instructor; specific patterns of distribution are not mandated by the university. Under the combination system, the instructor uses a combination of absolute achievement and relative performance in class to determine course letter grades. Instructors are required to announce at the beginning of the course the manner in which the official University grading system is to be implemented in the course.

A+	exceptional performance with respect to course learning objectives; exhibits original, creative thinking and demonstrates a capacity to analyze critically and synthesize information.
A	excellent performance combined with strong evidence of critical thinking.
A-	excellent performance with respect to course learning objectives.
B+	very good achievement of course learning objectives
B	good to very good achievement of course learning objectives
B-	good achievement of course learning objectives
C+	satisfactory to good achievement of course learning objectives
C	satisfactory achievement
C-	acceptable achievement but somewhat less than the normal expectation of course learning objectives
D+	poor achievement with respect to course learning objectives
D	minimal pass
F	unsatisfactory performance and considered a failing grade

The following class means and medians were recommended by the University of Alberta General Faculties Council in the 2010-11 academic year. They are presented here for information purposes only:

	3rd Year	4th Year
Mean	3.00	3.11
Median	B	B+

The course outline acts as an agreement between the student and the instructor regarding the details of the course. Circumstances might develop, during a term, where a change to the course outline, as set out in the University Calendar, made sense to all concerned. Such changes shall only occur with fair warning or general class consent. Policy about course outlines can be found in Course Requirements, Evaluation Procedures and Grading of the University Calendar.

GOOD LUCK IN YOUR PRACTICUM!!! 😊

ASSIGNMENT #1: Developing a Personal Philosophy of Teaching Social Studies

Individual

Part A: 10%

Part B: 5%

Part A: In this 2-3 page (double-spaced) paper, you will describe your Philosophy of Teaching Social Studies. This assignment asks you to reflect on the kind of social studies teacher you want to be. Based on your prior experiences with Social Studies, with course readings (and especially Chapters 1-3), and with classroom activities and discussions:

- Describe the goals you will prioritize in your social studies teaching
- Identify where you would place yourself on the “matrix” (see Chapter 3 in the text)
- Explain, in your own words, the two “citizenship orientations” with which you most strongly identify
- Analyze and explain how your chosen goals and citizenship orientations will shape what occurs in your classroom (e.g., classroom set up, assessment, use of resources, and so on)

Scholarly requirements: I expect to see references made to relevant course readings – this means using in-text citations and providing a bibliography of works cited. You may also reference other materials as you deem appropriate.

Assessment: Summative. A mark will be assigned when submitted.

DUE: January 14th

Part B: Close to the end of the course, you will revisit your earlier Philosophy of Teaching Social Studies alongside all course experiences to develop a 1 page double-spaced reflection that documents what has shifted, since the beginning of the course, about your understandings of social studies and the kind of social studies teacher you want to be, and why these shifts have occurred.

Assessment: Summative. A mark will be assigned when submitted.

DUE: March 4th (submit paper version @ beginning of class with your unit plan assignment)

Philosophy of Teaching Social Studies Assessment Criteria

Criteria for assessing this particular assignment are below. We will discuss these and any others you raise. I will confirm the final criteria in writing (via email or as a handout) before the assignment due dates.

- Description of ways previous and ongoing experiences have shaped (and are shaping) your current philosophy of teaching Social Studies, especially the goals you’ve prioritized for your social studies teaching
- Demonstration of connections with course readings
- Clear and accurate explanation of selected citizenship orientations
- In-depth analysis and clear explanation of how your goals and selected citizenship orientations will shape what occurs in your classroom
- Careful attention to grammar, punctuation, spelling, referencing, etc.

Reflection Assessment Criteria

- Specific and detailed descriptions of WHAT has and has not shifted during the unfolding of the course
- Specific and detailed descriptions of WHY these shifts have / have not occurred
- Careful attention to grammar, punctuation, spelling, referencing, etc.

ASSIGNMENT #2: Unit Plan
Groups of two
Value: 40%

This assignment has been broken down into 3 smaller (and hopefully more manageable!) pieces. The work on the unit plan assignment is cumulative. That is, each part builds on the next.

Part A: Unit Plan Rationale. This work precedes the development of your unit plan (3 pages single-spaced).

A template will be provided for you, to complete the following:

- a) Select a grade for the unit plan that you will work on throughout the course
- b) Describe the central or “big” ideas for the grade you have chosen
- c) Begin to cluster learning outcomes from the Program of Studies, to form a cohesive unit of study
- d) Identify the “enduring understandings” for your unit (these are based on the big ideas and learning outcomes you “clustered” in c, above)
- e) Identify ONE “essential question” which will guide students’ inquiries during the unit
- f) Explain how your proposed unit is consistent with the principles and goals of the Front Matter of the Social Studies Program of Studies (total for parts a – f: 3 pages)

Assessment: Formative. No mark assigned when initially submitted. Students are required to resubmit with final assignment (Part C). Pass in a revised copy and the original when you pass in the full assignment. Will be reassessed and graded in conjunction with unit plan.

Part A Due: January 23 (submit paper version @ beginning of class)

Part B: DRAFT Assessment Plan (approximately 1 – 3 pages)

A template will be provided for you, to complete the following:

You are required to develop an assessment plan for your unit. Remember, in the “Backwards Design” approach to planning, assessment is thought of first and is used as a planning tool. Come up with assessment indicators (acceptable evidence that students have achieved the learning outcome) and assessment tasks (assignments and activities that you will have students do to provide that evidence to you) along with criteria for assessment for each of the outcomes and enduring understandings you have selected for your unit. Following the principles of backwards design (Wiggins & McTighe, 2005), assessment is foregrounded and considered before learning activities/experiences are planned. Assessment indicators and tasks must be connected to learning outcomes clustered in Part A. They must be specific. (“I will assess with a rubric” or, “I will check to see if their homework is done” are unsatisfactory responses!) You do not need to create rubrics for this assignment BUT you do need to indicate the kind of criteria you are going to use to assess student work.

Assessment: Formative. No mark assigned when initially submitted. Students are required to resubmit DRAFT with final assignment (Part C). Will be graded as a part of the unit plan overview/map.

Part B Due: February 4th (submit paper version @ beginning of class)

Part C: Unit Plan Overview (page length varies)

A template will be provided for you, to complete the following:

Individuals and/or pairs are required to create a unit composed of 8 – 10 “mini-lessons.” This should be a complete unit. The unit should have a clear beginning, middle and end and lessons should be linked to one another. You are required to include the following components in each lesson:

- i) lesson objectives (based on learning outcomes from POS)
- ii) learning experiences/activities
- iii) resources
- iv) assessment strategies and criteria for evaluation – to be included in each lesson!

Individually or as a pair, prepare an overview of a social studies unit consisting of 8 to 10 mini-lessons. The unit must promote critical thoughtfulness of the topic under study. You may include an additional (or 11th) lesson for student presentations or other assessment, but the previous lesson must synthesize the major ideas of the unit. (In other words, the unit can end with the method you chose to evaluate your students, but the lesson before the evaluation must successfully bring the unit to a close.) Like a good story, movie or lesson plan, a good unit plan has a clear beginning, middle and end. Your unit overview should also demonstrate this.

In the unit plan overview, you must:

- incorporate at least two of the teaching approaches we have explored during the term: concept teaching, teaching skills, historical thinking, etc.). Label the lessons that you feel incorporate these teaching approaches.
- include several of the teaching ideas or activities (jigsaw, “placemat”, using maps, using primary sources, etc.) that we have explored throughout the term.
- include a minimum of 1 to 3 technology related outcomes (indicated by a ► in the POS).

Remember that you will have already done much of this in the earlier assignments. You may find that you want to “tweak” your assessment ideas and resources based on the feedback you receive but the good news is that you won’t need to start from scratch!

Note: The final product that you will submit should include:

1. Unit Plan Rationale Statement (Part A) – Original & Revised
2. Assessment Plan (Part B) – Original & Revised
3. 8 – 10 mini lessons (Part C), as described above

Assessment: Summative. A mark will be assigned when submitted.

Parts ABC Due: March 4th (submit paper version @ beginning of class)

Note: If you complete this assignment as a pair, both students in a group will receive the same mark. You should endeavour to work cooperatively, and strive to resolve any issues that may arise during group work. This is a real situation, in that teachers are often asked to work together on special projects, so it’s vital that you begin this practice now. If you are unable to resolve your issues, please see me immediately.

Each person is responsible for the finished product and therefore EACH PERSON in the group has a responsibility to ensure that the project is complete, and that no errors have occurred. Each person has a responsibility to check the project for spelling and grammar mistakes, overall cohesiveness of the project, proper citing of resources and that no plagiarism has occurred. Once you put your name on a project, you are responsible for its contents. Remember to do your part.

Unit Plan Overview Assessment Criteria

It is my intent to discuss assessment criteria for this course with you. However, I realize that it is important to have a baseline or place to start, so these are some of the criteria that will be used to assess this particular assignment. We will discuss these and any others you raise and I will confirm the final criteria in writing (via email or as a handout) before the assignment is due.

Unit Plan Topic

Expressed as an essential question; will engage students

Rationale

Clearly explains purpose and value of the unit. All areas of rationale (as identified in the assignment description) are included. Appropriate provincial learning objectives are identified. Unit plan reflects and is consistent with rationale.

Enduring Understandings

Clearly stated, comprehensive (do they provide adequate direction for the unit?) and worthwhile. Refer to what students will learn rather than what they will do. Related to prescribed learning outcomes identified in rationale.

Lesson Objectives

Together, they would attain unit goals. All objectives are relevant to attainment of unit goals and outcomes from the POS. Specify the intended outcome rather than the activity. Clearly stated, worthwhile. Appropriate for age/grade of student.

Teaching Approaches & Activities (Learning experiences)

Would achieve unit objectives and unit goals. Clearly described. Varied and stimulating. Use a variety of teaching approaches such as: historical thinking, concept teaching, etc. Lesson plans include various student activities intended to engage them in a thoughtful and critical manner. Focus on higher-order learning (e.g., Bloom's Taxonomy, Multiple Intelligences). Integrates various forms of technology in meaningful ways.

Resources

Included in each lesson. Students encounter a variety of resources, apart from their text. Appropriate to activities, student age/development, lesson objectives and unit goals.

Development of Unit

Opening lesson is motivating and establishes unit purposes. Sequence of activities is logical (prerequisite understandings and skills are taught at the appropriate times). Lesson plans are grounded in the principles of constructivist teaching, Backwards Design, Powerful Social Studies and incorporate the needs and learning styles of diverse learners. Final lesson effectively provides closure to the unit.

Assessment

A specific assessment strategy is included in each lesson. Assessment strategies measure and are directly related to lesson objectives. Provides sufficient information to accurately judge student achievement of objectives. Uses appropriate criteria to provide the grounds for judging quality. Supports learning. Provides valid indication of learning. Varied. Some attempt made to include students in the assessment process.

Overall

Does the unit show evidence of understanding of EDEL 335 course content? In what ways were course ideas synthesized, extended or applied? Overall cohesiveness of unit, professionalism, use of correct referencing procedures.

ASSIGNMENT #3: Evaluation of teaching resources Groups of Two (Same groups as for Assignment 2)

DUE: February 13th @ beginning of class

Value: 25%

Individually or in pairs (same pairs as for assignment 2), students will investigate and evaluate relevant resources for the unit of study they are developing.

This assignment will be completed digitally, meaning you will create a digital version and send me a link or a file. Possible formats you can use include: Google Docs, Google Sites, Google Slides, LiveBinders, PPT, Emaze, Prezi, Slideshare, or another platform that you are familiar with.

While page guidelines are included below, these are meant to provide some guidance for how much text you need to write/produce – it may look different on a digital site when compared to a “traditional” paper assignment. Note that these guidelines do not include the required attachments – these will be extra.

Project Components:

A. Introductory Material – The assignment should include an introductory page identifying your unit’s essential question and the Prescribed Learning Outcomes from the Alberta Education Social Studies Program of Studies that your group has chosen. You should explain how the selected resources will help students attain the particular outcomes your group has selected and engage with/respond to the essential question you’ve developed. Maximum of 2 pages single-spaced.

B. Resources – Individuals must include 5 of the resources listed below. Students working in pairs must include 8 resources. Resources marked with an * are required. Except for the teachers’ guide resource, all resources should be ones that elementary students would use.

1. Student (text) book segment – readability, layout, visual appeal, inclusion of key information, appropriateness of activities. Include a copy of the textbook segment.
2. Teachers’ guide (you can use any of these: Portion of AB On-line guide, portion of teachers’ guide from a publisher, or school district supplementary material, etc.) – description, assessment of usefulness of suggested teaching and assessment strategies. Include URL or a copy of the section reviewed.
3. Piece of children’s literature – description, explanation of why it is appropriate to the unit. Include an excerpt from the selected resource.
4. Software or Web 2.0 resource – explanation of what it is and why it is appropriate to the unit. Include a link to the software/Web 2.0 site.
5. Data document (map, chart, graph, etc.) – explanation of what it is and why it is appropriate to the unit. Include a copy of the document.
6. Visual document (drawing, photograph, painting, etc.) – explanation of what it is and why it is appropriate to the unit. Include a copy of the document.
7. Video, CD-Rom or Music– provide a description and an explanation of why it is appropriate to the unit. Include if possible, if not, indicate where it can be located.
8. Website – provide a description and an explanation of why it is appropriate to the unit. Include the URL for the website.
9. Field Trip – arrangements for booking, description of site, aims of the organization, activities at the site, materials provided by the organization (a copy should be available for other students to examine), an explanation of why the suggested trip would be appropriate for your unit. Include any promotional information available (e.g., brochure, or a URL to the location's website). You should make every effort to visit the site prior to including it in your resource package. Can be a virtual field trip!

- 10. Guest speaker – arrangements for booking, purpose and focus of the presentation, speaker's perspective on the topic, explanation of why the speaker is appropriate to the unit. Include contact information. Can be a virtual guest speaker!

In addition to the specific information required for each resource, also include the following:

- Full bibliographic information (title, author, page numbers, etc.)
- Specific teaching suggestions (how you would use the resource).....continued on next page.....
- You should also include a critical evaluation of each resource (in an analytic sense, not a negative one), referring to the readings we have done on how to assess resources. For instance, even though it may be appropriate to use for the topic and specific outcomes from the Program of Studies your group has selected, it may still have weaknesses and omissions that teachers need to be aware of. These will be important to highlight (even in a brief way). I expect you to reference course readings pertaining to evaluating resources in this section.

Suggested format – This isn't written in stone – be creative – and professional!!

- Title page
- Introductory pages – identify essential question and include your learning outcomes cluster. How will the resources help students attain these outcomes and answer the essential question?
- Resource pages – you need to select 5 or 8 resources as explained above. Use a separate page for each resource. Please set up each page as follows:
 - Title of resource at top of page
 - Full bibliographic information for resource (use APA style)
 - Critique of resource – Write a paragraph (or so) evaluating the resource. Apply some/all the resource evaluation criteria we've discussed in class/in the readings. Don't forget to cite your sources.
 - Include all specific information requested in assignment description.
 - Specific teaching suggestions – how would you use the resource? Be as specific as possible. Saying you'd "use it in group work", or "for research" is not specific enough.
- Ensure that you reference your material correctly. Avoid plagiarism. Check if you are not sure.
- Include a bibliography at the end, listing any course readings you've cited throughout the project.

Part B: Resource Assignment Assessment Criteria

It is my intent to discuss assessment criteria for this course with you. However, I realize that it is important to have a baseline or place to start, so these are some of the criteria that will be used to assess this particular assignment. We will discuss these and any others you raise and I will confirm the final criteria in writing (via email or as a handout) before the assignment is due.

- Is all the information provided?
- Are the resources suitable for attainment of the learning outcomes for the grade selected?
- Is there a clear and reasonable explanation of how the resources are appropriate to the selected learning outcomes?

- Are they suitable for students at the grade level indicated?
- Are suggested teaching approaches clearly described and worthwhile?
- Is a thoughtful critique of each resource provided?
- Is the finished product cohesive, polished and of professional quality?
- Are course readings referenced?

Note: If you complete this assignment as a pair, both students in a group will receive the same mark. You should endeavour to work cooperatively, and strive to resolve any issues that may arise during group work. This is a real situation, in that teachers are often asked to work together on special projects, so it's vital that you begin this practice now. If you are unable to resolve your issues, please see me immediately.

Each person is responsible for the finished product and therefore EACH PERSON in the group has a responsibility to ensure that the project is complete, and that no errors have occurred. Each person has a responsibility to check the project for spelling and grammar mistakes, overall cohesiveness of the project, proper citing of resources and that no plagiarism has occurred. Once you put your name on a project, you are responsible for its contents. Remember to do your part.

ASSESSMENT #4: Midterm Exam Individual

DATE: January 30th

Value: 20%

The midterm will be written in class during the first half of the class on the date indicated. After a short break, the class will continue.
